

Easter – about the living God

The search for direct experience with the Divine has always moved many hearts of men. We want to know if there is a God or not?

Day by day we are witnessing the living change of becoming and passing away in nature. We experience the wonderful order in the universe and in all living creation. A principle of harmony and love is expressed in all these manifestations.

Man, being the crown of creation, has the ability of becoming aware and conscious of him self. This Self is the universal power of life. It is the source of all being.

Jesus speaks: “I am the resurrection and the life. The one who believes in me will live, even though they die; and whoever lives by believing in me will never die.”
Joh.11, 25

In our own lives we can realize and experience all- encompassing divinity. This universal life bestows the foundation of self-realization and awareness to the human being. Self-realization is the consciousness of unity with God, our creator. The more man becomes aware and conscious of being a member of the one Being, the more he will recognize Gods power and love everywhere. In trust and dialog with life the appreciation and love to God and his creation will grow.

Death is nothing but material change in the living body of the eternal One. Jesus Christ, the Son of God, has overcome death to proclaim the gospel of resurrection and eternal life.

God is life; realizing this is a present of grace from God.

May we be aware of Gods living presence inside and around of us, to be one with Him forever.
